

Religion and Scientific Naturalism

By David Ray Griffin

State University of New York Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 364 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.6in. x 0.8in. Articulates a metaphysical position capable of rendering both science and religious experience simultaneously and mutually intelligible. In this book, David Ray Griffin argues that the perceived conflict between science and religion is based upon a double mistake-the assumption that religion requires supernaturalism and that scientific naturalism requires atheism and materialism. Religion and Scientific Naturalism argues with considerable sophistication that the source of apparent conflicts lies neither with religion nor science, but with the conceptual or philosophical frameworks within which religious experience and scientific discovery are often interpreted. No book that I know of has struck so directly at the roots of the dispute nor provided such a polished, thorough, and well-argued synthesis of religious and theological insight on the issues in science and religion. In my opinion, this is Griffins best work so far. One of its major strengths is the chapter on creation and evolution, which provides an extremely nuanced and sorely needed discussion for the various meanings of neo-Darwinism and evolutionism. -- John F. Haught, author of God after Darwin I find Griffins novel analysis of the de facto conflict...
